

To protect yourself from Ballistic Missiles

- ▶ Ballistic missiles can land within just 10 minutes of launch.
- ▶ To protect yourself from the violent blasts and debris of missiles
 - ① Immediately receive emergency information communicated from the country.
 - ② Take immediate action for personal safety.

① Receive emergency information

If there is a possibility that a ballistic missile may fly into Osaka, the national government to municipalities, Emergency information is communicated through various means via telecommunications carriers and broadcasters.

Television and radio

Broadcasters receive J-Alerts, broadcast emergency information on TV and radio. TV and radio broadcasting emergency information.

Mobile Phones and Smartphones

J-Alerts from the government to cell phone companies are Emergency Alerts are linked to mobile phone companies, and Emergency Alerts and Area and area e-mails will be sent out.

Osaka Disaster Prevention Application and Crisis Management Office X

Osaka City also disseminates emergency information received through the Osaka Disaster Prevention App and Crisis Management Room X.

Disaster prevention speaker

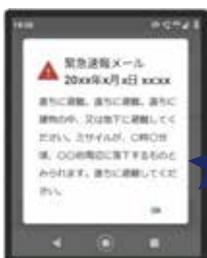

Disaster prevention radio broadcasts from various locations in the city emergency information is transmitted by sirens and voice.

National protection siren sound played over disaster prevention speakers

You can listen to the sound of the National Protection Siren at the Cabinet Secretariat National Protection Portal site. Please learn what it sounds like.

Content of J-alerts issued by the government in the event of a falling ballistic missile (example)

Evacuate immediately. Evacuate immediately.
Evacuate immediately to a building or underground.
A missile is expected to fall in the vicinity of ○○ at approximately ○:○. Please evacuate immediately

